

Presenting results in talks

Yanjing Wang

Department of Philosophy, Peking University

May 15, 2013

The goal(s) of a talk

The goal(s) of a talk

- ▶ To impress people?

The goal(s) of a talk

- ▶ To impress people?
- ▶ To interest people?

The goal(s) of a talk

- ▶ To impress people?
- ▶ To interest people?
- ▶ To interact with people?

The goal(s) of a talk

- ▶ To impress people?
- ▶ To interest people?
- ▶ To interact with people?
- ▶ To structure your own thoughts?

The goal(s) of a talk

- ▶ To impress people?
- ▶ To interest people?
- ▶ To interact with people?
- ▶ To structure your own thoughts?

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?
- ▶ What did you do in this paper?

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?
- ▶ What did you do in this paper?
- ▶ How did you obtain the main results?

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?
- ▶ What did you do in this paper?
- ▶ How did you obtain the main results?
- ▶ Share the excitement with the audience!

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?
- ▶ What did you do in this paper?
- ▶ How did you obtain the main results?
- ▶ Share the excitement with the audience!

“That (funny/cute/ugly/nervous) guy from China did an interesting and non-trivial work on xxx.”

The goal(s) of a talk

To get your key messages across:

- ▶ Who did this work?
- ▶ Why did you do this work?
- ▶ What did you do in this paper?
- ▶ How did you obtain the main results?
- ▶ Share the excitement with the audience!

“That (funny/cute/ugly/nervous) guy from China did an interesting and non-trivial work on xxx. I am gonna read his paper.”

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk
- ▶ Keep it 'simple'

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk
- ▶ Keep it 'simple'
- ▶ Do not read or recite

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk
- ▶ Keep it 'simple'
- ▶ Do not read or recite
- ▶ Be in time

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk
- ▶ Keep it 'simple'
- ▶ Do not read or recite
- ▶ Be in time
- ▶ Ask questions to yourself

The most important things

- ▶ Understand your own work
- ▶ Know your audience
- ▶ Structure your talk
- ▶ Keep it 'simple'
- ▶ Do not read or recite
- ▶ Be in time
- ▶ Ask questions to yourself
- ▶ Rehearsal!

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.
- ▶ Repetition: Tell them what you are going to tell them; Tell them; Tell them what you just told them.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.
- ▶ Repetition: Tell them what you are going to tell them; Tell them; Tell them what you just told them.
- ▶ Look at the audience especially the chairperson.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.
- ▶ Repetition: Tell them what you are going to tell them; Tell them; Tell them what you just told them.
- ▶ Look at the audience especially the chairperson.
- ▶ Connect to previous talks and the work by the audience.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.
- ▶ Repetition: Tell them what you are going to tell them; Tell them; Tell them what you just told them.
- ▶ Look at the audience especially the chairperson.
- ▶ Connect to previous talks and the work by the audience.
- ▶ Brave enough to say 'I don't know'.

More detailed advice

- ▶ Make four slides for the Wh- and How questions and then extend them.
- ▶ The first/last few minutes are golden.
- ▶ Prepare to finish your talk at any moment within 1 min.
- ▶ Repetition: Tell them what you are going to tell them; Tell them; Tell them what you just told them.
- ▶ Look at the audience especially the chairperson.
- ▶ Connect to previous talks and the work by the audience.
- ▶ Brave enough to say 'I don't know'.
- ▶ You know your own work best thus be confident!

How to learn?

How to learn?

Attend and give many bad talks!

How to learn?

Attend and give many bad talks!

A classic reference:

Ian Parberry. How to Present a Paper in Theoretical Computer Science: A Speaker's Guide for Students